Theft, among the Choctaws and Cherokees, is punished by whipping. The Creeks not only whip severely, but cut off the ears of the culprit, and fasten them up in the town square.

The Choctaws scaffold their dead until the flesh rots off them; the scaffold being eight or ten feet high and built ou the edge of their yard. They then scrape the bones clean—place them in a box or put boards for bark around them, and bury them in the ignound—bury them sometimes in their yard, sometimes under their house.
